DIGS AT JEROME BY DR. PARKHURST

"A Funny Fellow" Is the District-Attorney, and One of His Characteristics Is "Undigested Eccentricity."

BLAMES HIM FOR TROUBLE.

The Minister Says McClellan Is a Fine Man, Lut Ridicules the Idea that He Would Be Independent of Murphy and Tammany.

Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, who is just back from Europe, talked to-day on the Mayoralty campaign.

The situation is a delicate one, but if we do not make ourselves foolish I see no reason why we cannot win in spite of Jerome." he said, "Jerome is a funny fellow. Que of his distinctive features is undigested eccentricity. He is doing an amount of damage which he can hardly realize. He is publishing to the world that his work has been a failure, for if it had not been for him the present administration would not have been in. The question is not whether the administration is perfect; the question is whether Mr. Low has succeeded in the last two years in maintaining an administration that has been conducive to the interests of this municipality and of the people of it of all classes, the oor as well as the rich, those who have no influence as well as those who ar rotected by their affluence.

Much Good Has Been Done.

"Now, I claim, as regards that point that there is no room for debate. No one can have studied the work in administrative lines of Mr. Low's commissioners without realizing that they have done good and effective work during the last two years. That they have made the city perfect no one can claim. There are no perfect municipal administra tions, but that they have been working concertedly and conscientiously toward the best good of the city, no one who is familiar with facts can deny. No one can have come into touch with the commissioners themselves, as I have been privileged to do, without realizing the untiring sincerity with which they have given themselves up to the city's benefit.

"There are complaints of this kind made with regard to Mr. Low. The first is that he is cold-blooded. Now it makes no difference to me as a citizen whether he has blood or whether he hasn't any blood at all; or whether his heart beats fifty times a minute or one hundred times a minute, provided the instruments he selects for administrative work are distinguished for honesty and ability.

instruments he senses in the more and ability.

"Another complaint made by a good many people is that they have experienced some rebuff at the Mayor's hands and so have become alienated from him. Well, a man who is willing to put his own personal preferences in the place of the city's municipal interests and to become so conscious of himself as to be unconscious of the supreme demands of the town at large is a man to be commiserated and reserted.

Good Man in Office.

"There are some who are so anxious for the interests of their own party that they are willing the city should go to the dogs if their own party cannot be the winner. That is the Tammany principle, and it is no worse in Tammany than in Republicanism or in Independent Democracy. It is to be execrated in either case.

"The administration of a muicipality is a great business enterprise, and like any other enterprise, say manufacturing or banking, it requires simply honesty and intelligence. It needs men who are straight and men who are able, that's all. The men who have done the administrative work of the last two years are straight and they are able. These are facts that ought to be digested by Jerome or by anybody else that is not so overshadowed by his own immensity as to be aimable to his own immensity as to be unable to attain to a true perspective. And if it comes about as a result of Jerome's characteristic pyrotechnics that the present administration suffers in the public esteem and is defeated at the polls, the responsibility therefore will rest on the shoulders of our District-

Attorney.

"And if he to such a degree is success-"And if he to such a degree is successful in antagonizing the continuance of the present administration, and we fall back into the hands of Murphy & Co., he will be betraying us into the hands of the same people that he spent six weeks two years ago in damning.

McClellan a Fine Man, But-

McClellan a Fine Man, But—
"Now, with regard to McClellan, whom I believe is to be their nominee, I predicted some time ago that he would be the nominee. He is the best card they can play. He is a fine man, of admirable antecedents and his name is a name to conjure by. I feel a special interest in the man because of the admiration and love I had for his father. His father and family were members of my church when I first came here, and with my mind I have always followed young McClellan with peculiar interest on that account. But the personal interest which I have in McClellan has nothing whatever to do with the position which I ought to take as a citizen. A man is not fit to be a citizen who cannot sink his own personal regards in such matters.

"Mr. McClellan is quoted as sexing."

his own personal regards in such mat-ters.

"Mr. McClellan is quoted as saying that he is not going to be Mr. Murphy's man. Any man, even an archangel, would be fettered and handicapped by the party of which he becomes the offi-cial representative. The Czar of Russia cannot do what he would like to do, and for the reason that he is a part of the Russian system.

"The same would be true of McClellan.

Russian system.
"The same would be true of McClellan.
Whatever his personal character, his administration would be a Tammany administration, so that even with the prospect of McClellan at the City Hall the two alternatives are: Tammany government and anti-Tammany government."
